Prof Richard Trethowan

What will we feed our pigs? - heat stress impacts and adaptation on crop production

Richard Trethowan is Professor of Plant Breeding and Director of the Plant Breeding Institute at the University of Sydney. He has 33 years of experience breeding crops with tolerance to abiotic stresses both internationally and in Australia. His research interests include the development of new plant breeding technologies, enhancement of high-temperature tolerance of cereal and leguminous crops and development of grain crops with enhanced nutritional value.
